

Process Journal – Senior Studio II

A process journal entry is due on your wordpress site every Monday (unless otherwise stated). This must include:

1. At least 4 new audio or visual elements made in the process of your production.

This may include:

- Sketches, iterations of character concepts, design elements
- Audio recordings (voice, music, scratch tracks)
- Turn-arounds of 3D models
- Character textures
- Photographs of physically constructed elements
- Completed elements/renders
- Animation clips (playblast or pencil-test)
- Video of interactive tests
- Working software in alpha or beta

These posts may not include:

- Storyboard panels, animatics, etc
- Research images (images must be generated, not found)
- Repeated/iterative elements without substantial change
- Elements that are meaningless to the current stage of production (i.e. character designs during animation, renders prior to lighting)

Any post without audio or visual elements will not be graded.

2. A written response for each element detailing:

- A brief description process for the creation of this element
- What choices you made in the production of this element and why
- How this element fits into your overall project
- An evaluation (what's working well/what's not working well/WHY)
- An explanation of how the design of this element fits into your overall design
- What happens next with this element
- A description of any other elements you're currently working on, updates to previous posts

You will have additional writing and journaling assignments. They do not replace these assignments.
